FLYING PIG PRODUCTIONS

the silence of the bams

from the people who brought you DESPERATE FISHWIVES

Since their debut at the Lemon Tree in 1998 with Last Tango in Powis, the popularity of Aberdeen's own Flying Pigs has soared, and they have enjoyed sell-out runs of Desperate Fishwives and How To Look Good Glaikit at His Majesty's Theatre in 2007 and 2009. Since then, the people who brought you The Madness of Kingswells and The Seagull Has Landed have had three successful series on BBC Radio Scotland, and a TV pilot on BBC2, also entitled Desperate Fishwives.

Now "the Punk Scotland the What?" return to HMT with a new stage show packed full of Flying Pig's winning blend of local humour, irreverence and inspired silliness.

The 11 performance HMT run of The Silence of the Bams premieres on 10th October 2011 and is sure to delight old fans and newcomers alike.

“Uniformly brilliant... Sharp, witty, irreverent and essential comedy viewing
